President Tells Congress to Lift Ban on Voyages

Early Says F. D. R.'s Message Did Not Bar Action on Cutting Out Section

Reads Extracts
Secretary Selects Parts of Message, Reads to Reporters

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—The White House emphasized today that President Roosevelt wanted early attention by Congress to further neutrality act revisions to permit American vessels to enter belligerent ports.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, told reporters that the President in his message asking lifting of the ban against arming American merchantmen did not close the door to eliminating another section which bars such vessels from combat zones and belligerent ports.

In the Senate, a campaign to scrap the act completely and authorize American ships to go anywhere was given impetus by the record of six American-owned ships sunk in as many weeks.

Early brought up the subject at his press conference to clarify a presidential retort yesterday to a reporter's question as to whether he joined Secretary of State Hull in favoring repeal of the belligerent port section.

Early said the President replied by saying he had sent a message on that and that if it were read it would grow on the reader. He wanted that cleared up for himself, Early continued, so he asked the President about it this morning.

Reads Extracts
The secretary then read extracts from the President's message of October 9 in which the President asked for repeal of Section 6 (the armed ship prohibition) "with all speed" and then in the next paragraph expressed the hope that Congress would give "earnest and early attention" to another major provision.

Although not mentioning Section 2 (belligerent port ban) the President's message went on to say "we are inviting their (aggressors) control of the seas by keeping our ships out of the ports of our own friends."

Early said this had a relationship to Section 2.

The secretary did not say whether Mr. Roosevelt wanted further revision during consideration of the pending armed ship legislation, but emphasized the President requested "early attention" and that no doors were shut to further changes.

In giving emphasis to the President's views, Early quoted that part of the message which said: "We must face the truth that the neutrality act requires a complete reconsideration in the light of known facts."

He also quoted this paragraph: "I earnestly trust that the Congress will carry out the intent of the lend-lease act by making it possible for the United States to help to deliver the articles to those who are in a position effectively to use them. In other words, I ask for congressional action to implement congressional policy. Let us be consistent."

The Senate foreign relations committee heard witnesses opposing the administration's armed ship bill today and one of them, former Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, said he had testified that arming American merchantmen would be ineffectual and would increase the nation's chances of involvement in the war.

Reed, who appeared at a closed meeting, told reporters he was against the ship arming measure (Continued on Page 11)

Respite Is Given

Aquarium Stands While Justice Weighs Plea Made by Citizens

New York, Oct. 22 (AP)—Doomed by the march of progress and Park Commissioner Robert Moses, New York's historic aquarium in Battery Park has been granted a reprieve until at least October 30.

A temporary "do not disturb" sign figuratively was hung on the fish-and-reptile home yesterday by State Supreme Court Justice Miller in adjourning for nine days a hearing on a citizens' protest against razing the structure to make way for a Brooklyn-Battery tunnel.

The borrowed time was won by Pierce Trowbridge Wetter, treasurer of the Greenwich Village Historical Society, and others who said the tunnel would not touch the building.

The fish, meanwhile, have been removed from the aquarium.

Thanksgiving Day To Be November 20

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—New York state will join two-thirds of the nation in celebrating Thanksgiving Day November 20, the date designated by President Roosevelt.

While Governor Lehman is not expected to issue his annual holiday proclamation until next month, the state like many others will, by precedent and previous commitments, carve its turkey on the earlier date.

Mayor Heiselman Compares Cost of Local Government

Figures Show Increased Public Improvements and Also Tax Rate That Is Lower

The following address was delivered Tuesday evening by Mayor C. J. Heiselman before the Eighth Ward Republican Club:

You should all think this over carefully, because you have a large stake in the results.

You citizens are all interested in our fine buildings, in our splendid streets, in our miles of sewers and water lines, in our wonderful reservoir properties, in our beautiful parks and playgrounds, in our modern lighting system for the streets and in the stadium, and in all of our plants and structures because you own all of these things. They are yours. They are worth millions of dollars and they belong to you.

That's why you must be careful whom you select to manage your city's affairs. You must select someone who knows how to operate these various properties and someone who knows how to manage a business as big as the city of Kingston's business, which is one of the largest businesses in the city.

What would you do if you owned a business worth many millions of dollars?

Would you pick out someone as your general manager who knew nothing about it?

Or would you hire a man of long training and experience, who had proved by his record that he knew your business from A to Z?

An unqualified person, or group of persons, with no knowledge of or experience in municipal government, could bankrupt and wreck a city like Kingston in every short time.

Many cities of the country have been wrecked because of maladministration by incompetent, public officials.

Kingston was not wrecked during the perilous days of the depression because those in places of public trust and responsibility in our city government knew their business. They were honest, trustworthy, and had the political courage to do the things that had to be done to discharge their full responsibilities to you, the people, without risking the financial safety of the city.

In many ways, my job is like a housekeeper's job in a household. I am responsible for carrying on the municipal housekeeping of the community. I am responsible for cleaning, lighting, heating, health, play, and work, and food inspection and ashes and papers and garbage removal, and a hundred other things that make up a woman's daily life of responsibility.

Since my municipal housekeeping parallels the housekeeping of the average woman, I should like to ask the women of Kingston this question:

Suppose you had a maid who worked for you for eight years, and she was thoroughly trained and experienced in all phases of housekeeping. Suppose she ran your household smoothly and efficiently, and gave you all sorts of good things to eat and saved you money by doing it. Suppose she knew by long experience just how you wanted everything done. Now suppose along came another girl, who knew nothing about housework, and suppose she began to tell you stories about your maid and asked you to fire your maid and give the job to her?

Would you fire your trained and experienced maid and hire the greenhorn?

Of course, you would not. But that is what you are being asked to do in this campaign. Ladies, that's something for you to think about before you vote for your municipal housekeeper on election day.

Mose households today have mechanical refrigerators, mechanical vacuum cleaners, mechanical washers, mechanical radios, toasters, and a host of other modern conveniences. (Continued on Page 10)

U.S. Is Told Lehigh Crew Put Ashore

Report Says 44 Men Are Saved by Crew of 39; Others Thought Stowaways

Engineer Is Hurt

Lehigh Assistant Has Injuries; 18 Missing From Bold Venture

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull today labeled the torpedoing of the American freighter Lehigh off Africa as an act "in harmony with all the definitions of piracy and assassination."

This sinking of a vessel flying the American flag, and travelling without cargo between Bilbao, Spain, and the African gold coast, was a perfect example, Hull told his press conference, of the "Nazi policy of attempting to create a reign of terror, frightfulness and absolute lawlessness on the high seas, and especially on the Atlantic."

Hull spoke shortly after the maritime commission said it had been advised of the rescue of all the 39 Americans of the Lehigh crew.

Men Reported Safe

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—The Maritime Commission said today it had been advised of the rescue of all the 39 Americans of the crew of the torpedoed American freighter Lehigh.

Twenty-two men were landed at Bathurst by the British ship Vimy, and 22 at Freetown. Since the crew included only 39, officials expressed the belief that the others were stowaways.

The news gave a measure of relief to this capital, perturbed though it still was over the loss of two more American-owned ships to Atlantic raiders.

The sea war's toll of American vessels now stands at 10 and President Roosevelt made plain that he considered the Lehigh's sinking a particularly flagrant act of piracy.

None of the Lehigh survivors landed at Bathurst was injured, according to the commission's information, while two of those landed at Freetown suffered injuries.

The condition of Joseph Brady, Jr., third assistant engineer, was described as "rather serious." He suffered chest and leg injuries.

The other injured crew member was Joseph Bartlett, an ordinary seaman, who lost three toes, but whose condition was described as not serious.

Two Are Sunk

The latest ships to be lost were the Lehigh, which went down flying the American flag Sunday off the west coast of Africa, and the Bold Venture, American-owned but operating under Panamanian registry, which was sent to the bottom off Iceland last Thursday.

Eighteen members of the Bold Venture crew are still missing, on the basis of revised Maritime Commission figures. The United States Lines said at New York today that all 39 of the Lehigh's crew had been saved. The Lehigh crew was composed of American citizens, while the Bold Venture's numbered several nationalities, all foreign.

The Maritime Commission said the Bold Venture crew numbered 35, of whom 32 are originally announced. Seventeen have landed at Reykjavik, Iceland.

Navy patrols deployed through the North and South Atlantic in the search for survivors and also for a shooting chance at any raider encountered in the process.

17 Unaccounted For

Seventeen of the Lehigh's crew—all of them American citizens—were still unaccounted for, and the other freighter reported that her missing number 15 seamen of various foreign nationalities.

The South and North Atlantic are being searched by navy patrols for any trace of additional survivors and also for a shooting chance at any raider encountered in the process.

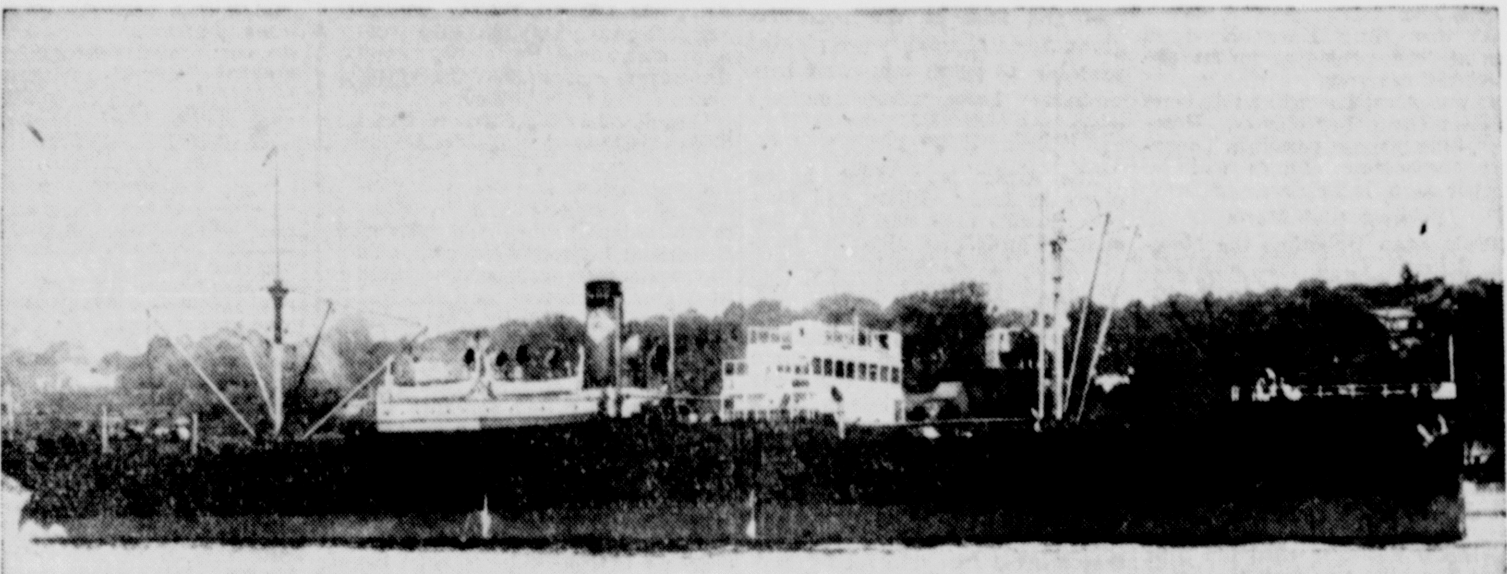

President Roosevelt himself announced the torpedoing of the Lehigh to his press conference yesterday—with regret, he said solemnly—and he dwelt pointedly on the circumstances of the sinking. There was no doubt he regarded it as additional argument for putting guns on American merchantmen.

The Lehigh, he said, had discharged a cargo at Bilbao, Spain, and was proceeding southward empty, without cargo, on a trading voyage to the gold coast. She was sunk just north of the equator between South America and Africa, he said, but nearer to the southern end of the bulge of Africa. She was flying the stars and stripes.

The President's press conference had scarcely dispersed before the Bold Venture joined the Lehigh on the day's sinking list. The first President Roosevelt announced in Washington that the merchant vessel Lehigh (above), flying the U. S. flag, had been torpedoed October 19 off the west coast of Africa. The Lehigh was flying the Stars and Stripes, the Bold Venture the flag of Panama when they went down.

Firemen Awarded Convention Prizes

Works of Art Presented at Clintondale Session

Awarding of prizes to the fire companies taking part in the annual parade that closed the 1941 convention of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association in Woodstock this summer, and the naming of committees to serve during the ensuing year, marked the monthly meeting of the association held in Clintondale Tuesday evening as the guests of the Allied Community Fire Department.

The prizes awarded consisted of works of art which had been donated by some of the leading artists in Woodstock. The fire companies awarded prizes were: Scorsby Hose of Ellenville, first prize, a painting donated by Carl Eric Lindin; second prize, an etching by Woiceske for being the best appearing company in the line of march, and also with having the most men in line.

Elections Board Is Not to Print His Name on Ballots; Affects Others

Justice Schirick this morning handed down his decision in the Leon Buley election case, holding that the petition of Buley, Democratic candidate for town clerk in the town of Shandaken, was not filed in time under the election law and that the Board of Elections therefore shall not order the printing of his name on the election ballot strips.

Burey was named by the Democratic committee on vacancies following the holding of the town Democratic caucus and a designation petition was filed with the Board of Elections.

In Supreme Court on Monday the petition was attacked on the grounds that it had not been filed within the time prescribed by the provisions of the election law. Justice Schirick in handing down his decision today said that he was deciding only this one question and was not making and ruling on the question as to whether the committee on vacancies had authority.

Bishop E. H. Hughes Says Reaction Against Liquor Traffic Is Coming

"Reaction against the liquor traffic is coming, but it is coming slowly, and I may not live to see it, but this country will not forever tolerate conditions such as exist under repeal," declared Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of Washington, D. C., addressing the closing session of the State W.C.T.U. in St. James Methodist Church on Tuesday evening.

Some of the pungent statements made by Bishop Hughes during the course of his address were:

"If the present day drunken debauchery of the country continues for 10 years the United States will become the most drunken nation in the world."

"The liquor traffic today is damning the souls and ruining the lives of our young men and women."

"A man who is drunk is a temporary idiot."

literally murdered thousands of the men and women of Hawaii during the past 100 years."

"The city of Washington is consuming more hard liquor per capita than any other city in the nation, with Reno, Nevada, second."

"There is more drinking among women today than ever before in the history of our nation."

Taking as his topic "The Making of a Temperance Advocate," Bishop Hughes sketched the life and work of the Rev. Lyman Beecher, one of the first reformers in the history of the country who was born in New Haven, Conn., on October 12, 1775, and graduated from Yale in 1797. He attained fame by preaching a sermon against dueling at the death of Alexander Hamilton.

The Rev. Mr. Beecher was the father of the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, famous preacher of Plymouth.

W.P.A. Workers Will Get Increases in Pay Rates

Japanese Suggest Thai 'Assistance' To Occupy Region

Such Act Would Become Direct Threat Against Both American and Anglo Interests

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Freeman Special News Service)

The Japan Times and Advertiser, a newspaper controlled by the Japanese foreign office, has added a handful of tinder to the Far Eastern fire by urging assistance for Thailand (Siam) against what are described as foreign, anti-Japanese elements.

"Assistance" presumably would take the form of Japanese troops, which again raises the red-hot question of the occupation of Siam.

Now this little country lies right up against British Malaya, at the base of which is the great British naval base of Singapore, and London has once more made it clear through a spokesman that the occupation of Siam would be a direct threat to British interests. It also would be a challenge to the position the American government has taken.

In other words such a move by Nippon might easily precipitate war. That being the case, and since the Times and Advertiser wants to talk on this subject, it is permissible for us to enter the discussion without backing into it apologetically.

No Doubts Expressed

The other night down in Tulsa, Oklahoma, I joined in a talk-fest with a dozen big-time oil men and other prominent citizens, and the topic of war between the United States and Japan came up. Someone asked if there was any doubt at all about the United States winning such a conflict, and the answer to that is definitely in the negative—no doubt whatever.

"However," I added, "I may shock some of you by saying naval experts assert that if it came to a question of any navy having to go after the Japanese fleet when it was on the defensive in its own home waters, the attack probably would fail. Over a long period I've raised that question with both British and American naval experts and never yet have found one who didn't say that neither John Bull nor Uncle Sam could perform that feat. The point is, of course, that the saw-tooth coast of Japan would be so heavily mined that enemy ships venturing into that zone would come popping out of the water like corks out of soda bottles."

Still, while the Japanese fleet could protect itself for a time by getting behind its mine fields, that wouldn't save Japan from defeat. The little island empire is so terribly vulnerable to blockade that the navy would have to come out and fight to keep ocean channels open. The Japanese navy is powerful, but in open fighting the United States would give the Nipponese a terrible trouncing.

Herzog Says 17,000 Workers to Receive Raises; Includes Ulster County

In a ruling announced today by W. P. A. Administrator Lester W. Herzog, about 17,000 upstate W. P. A. workers will be eligible November 1, for monthly pay increases totalling $87,449, according to an Associated Press Dispatch.

Arthur F. Hallinan, county manager of the local W. P. A., was not in his office this afternoon as he was out inspecting some of the projects under construction, and it was impossible to obtain the number of local workers who would be affected by the new ruling of Administrator Herzog.

"The additional compensation does not change the basic schedule of security earnings," Herzog explained, "but provides extra wages to assist in meeting the increased cost of living during the present emergency."

The Associated Press dispatch reports in the 57 counties under the administrator's jurisdiction, 16,545 are in line for wage increases of $5.20 a month and 363 are eligible for increases of $3.90 for the 120-hour work month.

Present monthly W. P. A. wage scales, based on geographic and urbanization groups, are $36 to $52.80 for unskilled workers; $48 to $63.60 for intermediate groups; $62.40 to $82.80 for skilled, and $63.60 to $87.60 for professional and technical workers.

Workers whose earnings have been increased because of longer hours allowed on certain projects and W. P. A. assignees to in-plant training courses, as well as administrative and supervisory employees, will not receive the additional compensation.

The wage increases, in line with the national policy announced October 10 by Works Projects Commissioner Howard O. Hunter, affect workers in:

Statewide sponsored community service and art projects, 785 at $5.20 per month and 191 at $3.90 per month. Five W. P. A. work camps, 498 at $5.20. National defense vocational training and airport service training courses, 512 at $5.20 per month.

District No. 2, Albany, Schenectady, Rensselaer, Montgomery, Schoharie, Greene, Ulster and Columbia counties, 1,997 at $5.20 and 50 at $3.90.

District No. 3, Westchester, Putnam, Dutchess, Orange, Rockland and Sullivan counties, 2,781 at $5.20 and 44 at $3.90.

District No. 4—Nassau and Suffolk counties, 1,558 at $5.20 and 48 at $3.90.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—The position of the Treasury Oct. 20: Receipts $37,365,196.04. Expenditures $114,269,038.42. Net balance $2,692,564,578.31. Working balance included $1,937,180,936.43. ## Embassies May Return To Capital

London Source Reports Smash for Moscow and Leningrad Are Halted

Losses Are Huge

Tremendous Heaps of German Dead Cover Battle Areas

(By The Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies face the prospect of sitting in winter-bound trenches until spring almost within sight of the two great prizes that failed to fall, Moscow and Leningrad, according to advances reaching London today.

A high-ranking neutral military authority in London said reliable information from Russia indicated that the German assault on Moscow and in the north was definitely halted and that the peak of the Nazi offensive had been passed.

"Undoubtedly Hitler will order and carry out new attacks," the source said, "but he will not again be able to muster anything like the strength he has used up in the past two weeks."

Other London advices, however, said the Germans were concentrating great new forces at Smolensk for an all-out frontal attack on the U.S.S.R. capital.

Premier Joseph Stalin remained in the Kremlin to direct the Red citadel's defense, with the fiercest action centering around Moshaisk.

Declaring that the 21-day-old German offensive against Moscow has already passed its peak and bogged down in snow-mired, all but impassable roads, a high-ranking neutral military authority in London said the tide of conflict has so turned that embassies which fled Moscow may return shortly.

Hitler, he said, has failed to achieve the swift victory promised in a speech October 3 in which the fuhrer announced that the drive on Moscow would be "the last great, decisive battle of this year."

The Nazi onslaught, this source said, has now been definitely halted, both around Moscow and in the north around siege-girt Leningrad.

Soviet dispatches pictured the Germans as suffering enormous losses on the Moscow front with "literally every metre of ground covered with the bodies of Fascist soldiers and officers" in the Moshaisk sector, 57 miles west of the Russian capital.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the Germans hurled tanks, motorized infantry and aviation into the assault which developed into hand-to-hand fighting.

Reds Establish Lines

The news agency said Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's Red troops fell back to new lines only where the Germans were able to concentrate numerical superiority. The depth of the withdrawal was not disclosed.

Winter's first snow fell over the Moshaisk region and a bitter wind howled over the steppes, piling snow on roads and in forests.

His weeks' held headquarters, silent on any new advance in the

Child Stands Again

Pamela Hollingworth Soon Will Be Taken From Lowell Hospital

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 22 (AP)—Little Pamela Hollingworth, who was lost for eight days in the forest wilderness of New Hampshire's Mt. Chocoma, will not walk for two weeks, her doctor said today.

The brave, five-year-old girl's feet were frost-bitten and although the large blisters have healed, Dr. Ralph E. Cole said complete circulation had not yet returned to her lower limbs.

Pam stood up with assistance yesterday and her parents had hoped she would walk today. Dr. Cole said, however, that the experience of standing up caused her some pain and fatigue.

When her father, Joseph E. Hollingworth, Lowell Lumber Company executive, visited her in Lowell General Hospital yesterday, she told him breathlessly: "I stood up in bed today. Daddy and doctor says after I walk I can go home."

Area to Be Topic Of Talk on Radio

Mary Margaret McBride to Tell of Apples

Kingston, Ulster county and the apples which helped make this area famous, will be the subject of conversation on the Mary Margaret McBride program over Station WEAH tomorrow, Thursday, at 1 o'clock. Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman and Albert Kurdt, county agricultural agent, having accepted an invitation to appear on this broadcast, will travel to the NBC studios in Radio City, New York.

The invitation to take part in the Mary Margaret McBride program came from Estelle Carn. Miss Carn is the business manager for Miss McBride and owns a farm in Ulster county. Through a friendship which has developed, ever since Mary Margaret McBride accepted an invitation from Mayor Heiselman to the first apple blossom festival, Kingston and Catskill mountain area have been receiving invaluable publicity.

As a result Miss Carn also visited the county and was so impressed with the hospitality of the people and the beauty of the countryside, that she finally purchased the Hesley farm at West Shokan, overlooking the Ashokan reservoir.

On the program tomorrow at 1 o'clock Mayor Heiselman will tell about the historic and scenic wonders of Kingston and Ulster county and Mr. Kurdt will tell about the importance of the fruit industry and other interesting facts regarding apple growing in the Hudson valley.

It was through the influence of Miss Carn and Miss McBride that the National Broadcasting Company installed a special wire and broadcast part of the program at the Apple Harvest Ball last Friday. The coronation ceremony, an interview with "Rip" Van Winkle of Stone Ridge and the Rondout Valley Glee Club, were among the features broadcast. This program was not only carried by Stations WEAH and WGY, but a number of other red network stations.

The program tomorrow will not only supplement the work of the Hudson Valley Apple Harvest Committee but will also co-operate with the apple industry in celebrating apple week which starts on October 24. The fame of Kingston as the center of the Hudson valley apple industry has spread from coast to coast. Apple growing in the Hudson valley is carried on intensively in Columbia, Dutchess, Orange and Ulster counties, of which Kingston is the geographical center.

When gasoline prices soared in cities of Bolivia, tax and bus drivers struck and obtained an increase in their rates.

Mayor Sends Apples To Soldiers in South

In The Freeman on October 18, appeared a request from Kingston soldiers in the south that they would also enjoy Hudson valley apples. The request was based on the action of the Hudson valley apple growers in sending a truckload of apples to the boys at Fort Dix.

The first response made to the request from the soldiers in the south was from Mayor C. J. Heiselman who has sent a couple of bushels of apples to Camp Croft, S. C.

Donald Burgher, a former Freeman employee, who is now at Camp Croft, wrote recently that "the apples we have down here are terrible. They haven't any flavor or juice in them. We sure miss everything back home."

Candidates Give Grade A Show in New York Drive

La Guardia and O'Dwyer Are Hitting Hard and Keeping Eye Cocked on White House

New York, Oct. 22 (AP)—In a city where picturesque personalities are as much a part of the scene as the skyline, two grade A performers of opposite temperaments are giving the people a run for their votes in the current mayoralty campaign.

On this rostrum you have the bustling, bouncing, everywhere-at-once F. H. La Guardia, the town's effervescent mayor who is seeking a third term as the candidate of the Republicans, the American Labor party, City Fusion and United City parties.

On this platform, you have the smasher of the infamous Brooklyn murder ring, William O'Dwyer, the serious, placid Irish immigrant boy who rose from common laborer to district attorney of Kings county (Brooklyn), the city's most populous borough.

The people will make their choice November 4.

La Guardia, who served 14 years in the House of Representatives, became a political figure of substance when, in 1937, he was re-elected mayor, giving Tammany Hall a historic second successive beating which was unprecedented in a century and a half.

His activities are manifold, bewildering and exhausting. In season and out he denounces politicians, meaning politicians in the unflattering sense, although he unquestionably is a politician and an able one, himself.

Among his extra-curricular activities—which he claims he carries on in his spare time—are directorship of the Office of Civilian Defense, chairmanship of the American section of the joint Canadian-United States Defense Board, and chairmanship of the United States Conference of Mayors.

He rarely misses a fire of any consequence any place in the city, but that's in the line of duty, he says.

The squat little man under the big black hat is widely disliked, widely loved.

O'Dwyer, born in County Mayo, Ireland, in 1890, arrived in New York 30 years ago. He went to work on the docks, he was a hod carrier, plasterer's helper and coal passer.

Seven years later O'Dwyer not only became an American citizen but a member of the New York Police Department as well. In another seven years he was graduated from Fordham University Law School and later entered private practice.

In 1932 he was appointed a city magistrate and six years later named Kings county judge. He was elected district attorney in 1939 with a vow to clean up the Brooklyn underworld—then an unsavory mess—a vow born when his own brother died in a cafe hold-up.

The spectacular unveiling of the notorious murder syndicate followed and many lesser underworld characters felt O'Dwyer's wrath. Behind O'Dwyer is a united Democratic party, a support not always enjoyed by La Guardia's Democratic opponents. Backing O'Dwyer are such leaders as Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn, leader of the Bronx; Frank V. Kelly, a power in Brooklyn; Christopher D. Sullivan, leader of Tammany Hall, and State Chairman James A. Farley.

With varied emotions, both camps have an ear cocked toward Washington, especially the White House. The Democrats have hoped for a sign from the capital that O'Dwyer is the man for city hall. The mayors' followers will be just as pleased if there is no sign at all, interpreting lack of endorsement for O'Dwyer as tacit presidential support of La Guardia.

Interest in Mr. Roosevelt's decision was heightened when, at the end of his press conference yesterday, the President indicated he would name his choice Friday. Mrs. Roosevelt already has announced her support of La Guardia and the mayor yesterday predicted that the Chief Executive also would join his backers.

THE GENERAL MOTORS CONTRIBUTION TO SAFER, MORE EFFICIENT DRIVING!

ALTHOUGH the number of cars Oldsmobile will build this year is limited, the quality is better than ever. Many materials have been eliminated because of their vital value to defense. In their place, Oldsmobile engineers have devised other materials, equally good or better. All Oldsmobiles will continue to offer Hydra-Matic Drive, the most efficient method of car operation ever developed. Hydra-Matic saves 10 to 15 per cent on gasoline. It saves time in traffic because it is always in the right gear. It saves effort because it eliminates all clutch pushing and all manual gear shifting. It makes driving safer because it gives better traction, and provides a special pick-up gear for passing. We are now offering special demonstrations of Hydra-Matic Drive in the Olds B-44. Come, try it!

SHELL AND CANNON FOR THE U.S.A.!

SCHWENK'S RECORD

Alderman-at-Large John J. Schwenk is one of the outstanding public officials of Kingston, and as president of the Common Council he has worked untiringly for the best interests of the city. He is seeking re-election on the record he has made during his term of office as head of the city's legislative branch of government. That record stands without criticism. He is a close student of municipal affairs, and his experience as acting mayor during those times when Mayor Heiselman was absent gave him first hand knowledge of city affairs.

President Schwenk's record, both as a private citizen and public official, stands unchallenged. There is no question but that he will be returned to office by a large majority.

HUNTING MISHAPS AND FIRE

With the opening of the hunting season for small game in the Catskills, and the first casualty of the season reported here, hunters are reminded that charges from accidentally discharged shotguns account for most of the casualties. It is estimated that about nine hundred persons are shot fatally each year in the United States due to sheer carelessness by hunters.

Hunters are also reminded that the woods are very dry and they should be very careful to see that matches, cigars and cigarettes are completely extinguished. This also applies to the building of camp fires. With the lack of adequate water supplies because of the continued dry weather, a fire would prove disastrous.

It is well also for hunters to consider the property rights of others when in the country. A hunting license does not mean that the bearer has the right to destroy the property of another or to endanger his life through reckless abandon with firearms.

WONDERFUL WORDS

Most of us don't half appreciate our blessings. There are the blessings of our language, for example. We take it all as a matter of course, and may even be unconscious of it as the words roll easily off our tongues or meet us in the pages of a book.

But it is not so with Catherine Kaprowski, a janitress and cleaning woman who came to America as a young girl, and was caught immediately in the grind of earning a living, and at last, in middle age, has devoted herself to mastering the English language. She is so earnest about it that, although she could have the teaching free, she is spending hundreds of dollars for private tuition.

"I never have been so happy as I am at school," she says. "How good it is to know these words and speak them correctly! Now I can know for myself what is happening in the world. I cannot tell you how wonderful that is."

TOO MANY COLDS

We learn from old Dr. Gallup, the prominent poll man, that one-tenth of the American people, in one-fourth of our homes, suffer from colds in a given week. If this is true, the "common cold" is far too common and something should be done about it in a big way.

The worst of it is that so often a cold isn't merely a simple ailment. And it isn't necessarily self-terminating. It may involve not merely one kind of disease, but a whole bagful of germs, with their sisters and their cousins and their aunts, coming along for the ride and eager to do the driving. As the patient's resistance is worn down, the more venomous passengers take their turn.

Yet modern medical knowledge is supposed to know how to control this enemy. People who keep themselves in good general physical condition, by eating the right food and getting enough exercise and fresh air and sleep, and not overheating their homes and offices, seldom have bad colds. There are vitamin pills, too, that afford a good deal of protection, although they are not a complete substitute for healthful living and sensible diet.

A nation should be armed with righteousness.

ness as well as guns. "Thrice armed is he that hath his quarrel just."

Wars wouldn't be so frequent and horrible if nations made better use of their peace.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)

LIVING SAFELY

In former days before the invention of the machine to measure blood pressure, the physician placed his fingers on the blood vessels in wrist or elsewhere and if they were hard (like a pipe stem) the blood pressure was said to be high and a stroke of apoplexy might be expected; if soft, the patient was not likely to have a stroke.

Although a hardened vessel means that more pressure is needed to push the blood through it and the pressure will increase as the vessel becomes harder, nevertheless it is now known that hardened bloodvessels (where elastic tissue in wall of bloodvessel has been replaced by hard tissue) is not the only cause of high blood pressure. There are other causes for high blood pressure, one of which causes the elastic tissue in the bloodvessel to contract or tighten and the blood needs increased pressure to pass through these vessels made smaller by having their elastic walls tightened.

What causes the muscles everywhere to tighten or contract? Excitement, anxiety, fear, overwork, will cause tenseness and tightening of nerves and muscles. And just as the large muscles of the body become tensed by the emotions, so do the tiny muscles of the bloodvessels (though not under control of the will) become tightened, thus raising the blood pressure.

It can thus be seen that when your blood pressure has been tested and found to be above normal, the high blood pressure may be due to some organic disease or change in the walls of the vessels caused by infections which have damaged the vessel walls. On the other hand, the high blood pressure may be due to the emotions causing a tightening of the bloodvessels making them smaller and so making increased pressure necessary.

If the high pressure is due to damage to the walls of the vessels—organic disease—treatment is rest and guarding against further infections by regular visits to your physician and dentist.

If the high pressure is due to your daily habits of keeping too tense, allowing unimportant matters to upset you, becoming angry or worried unnecessarily, you must learn to become more philosophical, more calm in spirit, if you are to keep your blood pressure within safe limits.

Q. What is one way in which everybody, no matter how small his income, can help to keep down the cost of living, and also aid national defense?

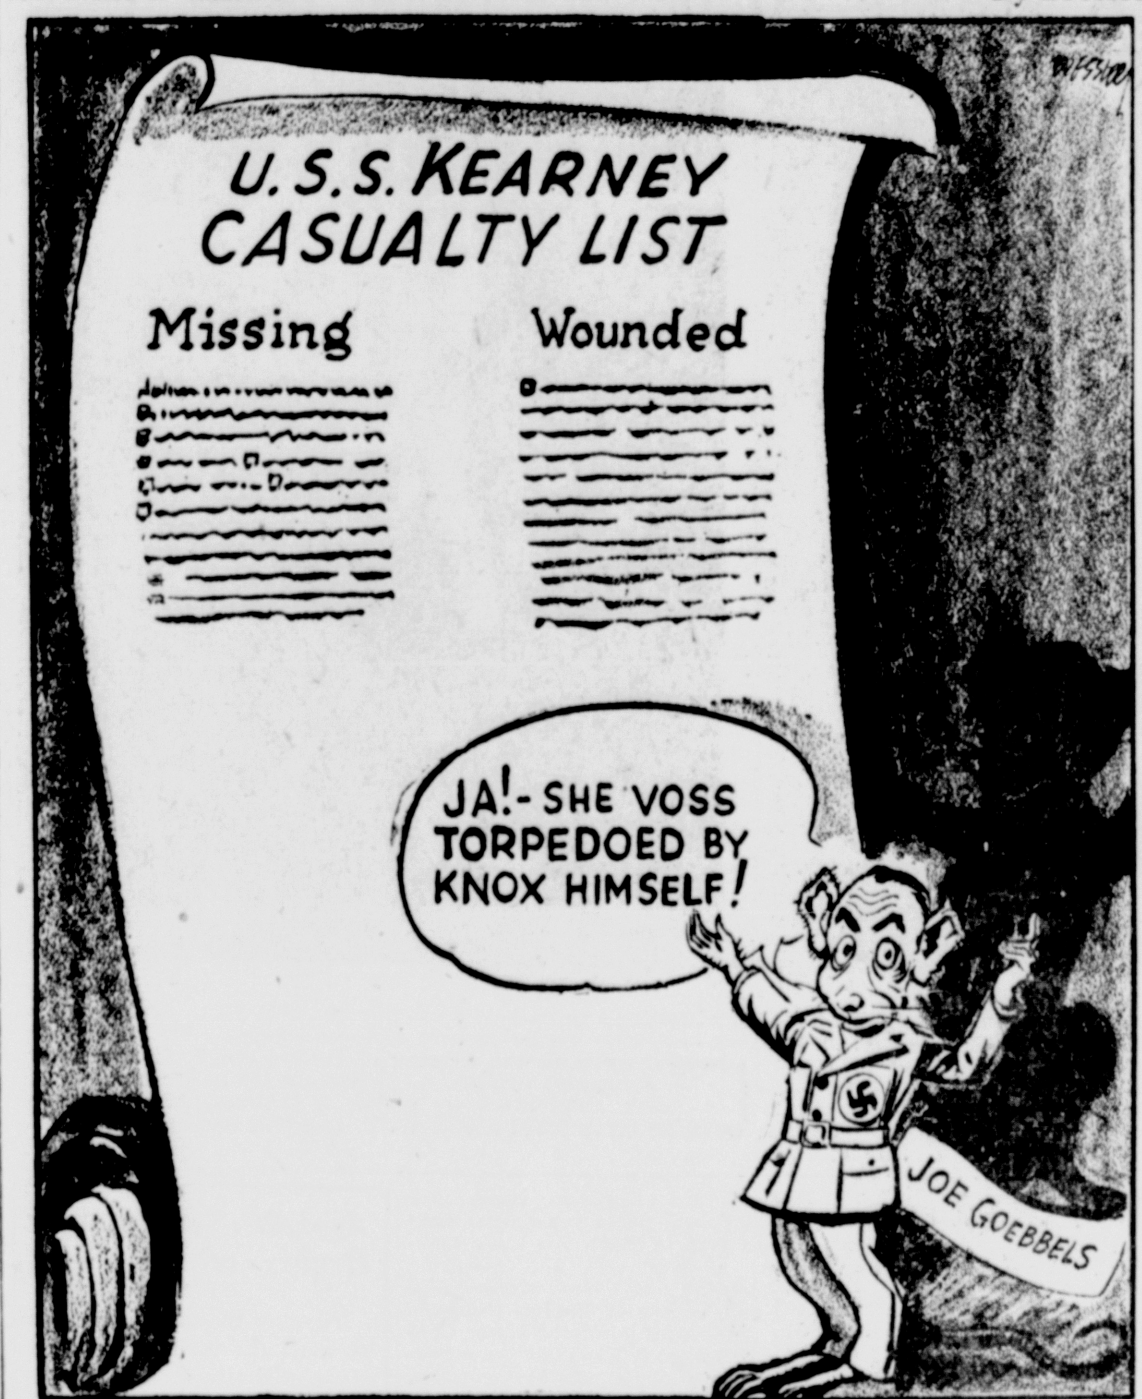

A. By refraining from spending all his earnings, and investing a part of them in Defense Bonds and Stamps. Thus he also provides himself with assets which will be available when goods are plentiful after the emergency.

Q. What happens to Defense Savings Bonds that are held beyond maturity?

A. The interest on Defense Savings Bonds ceases when they mature. In other words, the redemption value of the Bonds does not change after maturity; they may be redeemed at any time thereafter.

A Series of Word Pictures of the Republican Candidates

VICTOR H. ROTH

Victor H. Roth, the Republican candidate for alderman of the Twelfth ward, was born in that ward and attended School No. 7, until he removed to New York city at the age of 14 years.

While in New York city, Mr. Roth attended the schools there, and later entered the employ of the National City Bank of New York where he remained for a period of ten years, except for time out to serve during the World War with the U. S. Army.

Mr. Roth was assigned to the 8th Regular Division of the U. S. Army, and served 15 months with that division.

Upon receiving his honorable discharge at the close of the World War he returned to his position with the National City Bank where he remained until 1923, when he returned to Kingston and became connected with the Kingston Trust Company at the main office on Main street, where he has been employed ever since.

Mr. Roth is now trust officer of the bank, and is a member of Kingston Post No. 150, of the American Legion. He is a past president of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Institute of Banking and treasurer of the Ulster-Greene Council of Boy Scouts.

Mr. Roth is married and has three children. He resides with his family at 310 Lucas avenue.

In naming Mr. Roth as the candidate for alderman of the Twelfth ward he was selected because it was realized that he was fully qualified to ably represent that ward in the Common Council.

There is no question but that he will be elected by a large majority in November.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Counting in senators, representatives, news men, and observers, I sometimes think there have been more capitalities than soldiers on army maneuvers this year.

As a result of all the inspections, one of Washington's favorite pastimes now is telling maneuver stories.

Most often heard are those about the use of imaginary weapons—like the one about the private who verbally banged around until he was out of breath at an enemy private walking down the road. When the enemy still refused to drop dead, the irate private shouted at him: "What's the matter with you, soldier. I shot you with a rifle, a pistol and a machine gun?" The enemy kept on walking, just turning his head to yell back, "What's the matter with you, can't you see I'm a tank?"

But these aren't the only stories being told and some of them have a little more basis in fact.

For instance, word came to one battalion in Louisiana to end maneuvers. It was pouring rain and the boys were standing ankle-deep in mud. As the order was given, one soldier piped up: "Swell, now let's sing 'God Bless America'—and leave out Louisiana."

Louisiana came in for another one in a story about the hurricane. The 135th Medical corps was camped in lowlands near Jennings when the storm blew a flood into the camp. A conscientious lieutenant, eager to be positive that all his men had gotten out, went wading knee deep down the company street, poking his head into every tent. In one, he discovered a grinning private, sitting cross-legged on his cot, holding a stick in his hand from which dangled a couple of yards of stout cord. "What the devil are you doing?" the lieutenant shouted. The soldier eyed his officer in disgust. "Can't you see, sir? I'm fishing. The tent's full of 'em."

President Might Ask Congress to Recognize Existence of 'State of War'

(By DAVID LAWRENCE)

Washington, Oct. 22—Casualties of war—the first blood in an encounter between the navies of the United States and Germany—have been duly recorded.

Historically this has happened before without a declaration of war. It happened quite often during the time when the Spanish civil war was going on and the major powers lost naval ships in and around Spanish waters.

"Undeclared war" is novel to this generation but it usually is the prelude to declared war. Few wars in American history have begun on the initiative of the United States. Some hostile act, some attack on American lives or property has usually preceded what amounts to a ratification of a state of war by Congress.

If attacks such as the destroyer Kearny met become numerous, the executive may ask Congress to recognize that a "state of war" exists. That's what President Wilson said in April, 1917. The various attacks by German submarines on the ships flying the American flag constituted, then, in the opinion of the executive, a "state of war."

Naturally there will be considerable pressure to persuade President Roosevelt to defer any such request from Congress and rightly so because if America is to declare that a state of war exists it must be only after a virtually unanimous opinion concedes that such is the case.

The problem is a relatively simple one on that basis. It isn't going to be a question of urging Mr. Roosevelt not to ask Congress to declare war but merely a question of whether a series of attacks by the Nazi submarines and airplanes should be accepted as a "state of war." This puts the isolationists in the most difficult position they have been in since the outbreak of the European war in September, 1939.

They have contended that each successive step such as the repeal of the embargo and the passage of the lend and lease bill would involve the United States in war. Yet the steps which may be said to lead closest to war are those which the Congress was not asked to vote upon, namely the transfer of over-age destroyers to Britain in exchange for outlying bases in the Atlantic and the dispatch of an American naval and military force to share in the occupation of Iceland with the British.

The attack on the destroyer

Kearny came about as a result of the orders to the American navy by the President to patrol the North Atlantic and to shoot at sight any ships which interfered with our sea-borne commerce. This is the defense policy of the United States at the moment. The military and naval strategists of the government advised the President that occupation of Iceland was a military necessity, a proper defense policy. The politicians might argue differently but the executive charged with responsibility under the constitution for assuring the defense of the United States is bound to accept the advice of his military and naval experts.

Now, however, the situation is somewhat further advanced. The defense policy is an established fact. Will the United States now retreat and haul down its flag on the Atlantic or in the Iceland base because Hitler decides that he will use naval force to dislodge the naval forces of the United States? That's a different challenge from any flung thus far in the war. It is tantamount to asking whether the United States navy having been ordered in the interest of national defense to take up certain positions will now be ordered to run away and go back to continental United States because Congress wills it so.

Strictly speaking Congress can order a retreat and can order the seas to be surrendered to Hitler. On that issue how many isolationists would vote for retreat and surrender? It's difficult to prophesy the number but it would not be large. The overwhelming majority of members of Congress would vote to sustain the position the navy has taken. There may be debate as to the wisdom of the steps taken by President Roosevelt leading up to the attack on the destroyer Kearny but there is not much doubt what Congress would say in the event that the Nazis repeat their attacks on American naval vessels.

It would ratify a "state of war." Hitler knows this and it may be assumed that further attacks on American ships will be avoided, in fact it may turn out that the Nazi submarine commander made a mistake and thought he was firing at a British vessel. It would not be surprising if the Nazis at Berlin said so frankly in an effort to avert the outbreak at this time of general hostilities between the United States and Germany.

ARGENTINA brought out a vertical oblong in dull blue as a commemorative recently. The inscription reads: "1941 3 de Octubre 1941."

Marco M. de Avellaneda, plus the usual "Republica Argentina" and "correos 5-c." Today the name Avellaneda is known chiefly as a town, a suburb of Buenos Aires, population about 182,000. It is one of the chief industrial areas of the republic.

But a century ago that name meant more as the name of one of the great patriots of Argentina. President Avellaneda held office in 1874.

More Than 200 Farmers Begin F.S.A. Ownership

Two hundred sixty-six tenant and share-renter families in the 11 northeastern states are on their way toward owning their own farms as a result of the past year's tenant purchase program of the Farm Security Administration, Fred J. Kirchner, Jr., county supervisor for the F. S. A., said today.

Loans totalling more than $1,500,000 have been approved to make this possible and thus counteract increases in farm tenancy, he added.

Sixty-nine tenant purchase loans have been approved in New York state; 26 of these have already been closed. Tenants in Ulster county although unable to obtain loans for the purchase of farms in this county may apply for assistance in buying farms in other counties which have been designated as loan areas. Nearby counties which have been so designated are Orange and Washington.

Tenant purchase loans are made to farm tenants and share-renters who are unable to borrow at reasonable rates from other sources for purchase of farms. The loans may be repaid over a 40-year period and cover the complete purchase price of the farm and costs of necessary repairs and improvements. Interest is at three per cent annually.

"This means that a tenant purchase borrower who uses the maximum period of 40 years to repay the loan can carry the whole thing principal payments and interest charges—on an annual payment of 4.32 per cent of the loan," Mr. Kirchner said.

BUICK BUILDS FOR DEFENSE

Our assignment: Building Pratt & Whitney valve-in-head aircraft engines for defense use.

What's it got you haven't got in your present automobile?

HERE stands an automobile - the automobile, we believe, of 1942.

What's in it to make it that - and to lay fair claim on your attention?

Well...

There's a valve-in-head engine in it. The same type of engine that's used in every modern airplane. The type of engine now celebrating forty solid years of unquestioned superiority.

There's FIREBALL compression in it. Specially contoured Domite pistons that wring more good out of every drop of gasoline.

There's Compound Carburetion† in it. A constant check and double check on gas usage to see that you get both power and range from the fuel you buy.

There are crankpins and journals in it with an oil-cushion finish that multiplies bearing life.

There are new connecting rods that take up the heavier burden of present piston materials without adding a single mote of weight.

There are new broadrim wheels on it that not only get maximum mileage from tires, but steady the ride, take heel-over out of sharp corners, hold you on your track like a streamliner on its rails.

There is torque-tube drive such as you find in America's fastest fighting planes.

There are soft all-coil springs, forever gentle and easy, that never need any mothering care.

There are ruggedness, sturdiness, dependability.

There's the frugal use of gasoline and oil - thriftiness through low upkeep.

And if you go for life, and action, and ability, why not see for yourself how prompt its response, how smooth its ride, how light its handling, how roomy and comfortable and pleasant to drive this Buick is?

In short - why not try out this Buick and see why it is the automobile of 1942?

No other car has ALL THIS FOR YOU IN 'FORTY-TWO

Chapter Eight
Carpets And Curtains

SO Sue Ellen allowed Johnny to escort her about the camp, while Toby explained at great length the routine and regulations, the discipline and training. "You like it?" she asked curiously.

Johnny Harris answered: "It's a duty, and discipline doesn't hurt anyone. In fact, I think lack of discipline is responsible for a great many failures today."

He could talk seriously and well, and she found herself listening to ideas quite opposed to those entertained by men like Riv. Johnny Harris told her about his home. He came from Massachusetts. "This is quite different but I like it. I'd like to have a home down here."

She listened, but his words bore no significance and even when he talked about his acquaintance with Colonel Moore and that it had developed because of some important investments, she felt no interest, never dreaming that the Colonel's transactions in any way concerned herself.

"A great many of the old and beautiful homes down here have been restored," said Johnny. "I despise the people who do it," she said hotly. "Those homes belong to the South and I resent bitterly the fact that northern men come in and take them away from us."

"They pay for them."

"They have no right to take advantage of the fact that we have no money to keep what's our own."

"But if you can't hold them?"

"I'd still resent them. I'd never forgive anyone who bought Belle Acres."

"That was the Fairhope plantation?"

She nodded. "My great-aunt's home. I love it. I've always loved it. Maybe because I've been told that I'm like Great-aunt Isabelle. I look like her and act like her, and it's been my lifelong dream ever since I was a child, that some day I'd be able to repossess Belle Acres and restore it."

"Maybe you will." He was looking at her with a queer expression in his steady eyes when she glanced up quickly. Just for a minute, a stab of uneasiness broke the serenity of her thought. What did he mean—had he some foolish notion that in some way he might be a part of her future? Presumptuous if he did.

She was alone with Ginny for a moment while Toby and Johnny went off to get the car. "Your plan won't work," she said bluntly. "I can't put up a pretense of liking Johnny Harris, not even to keep Riv. Please don't include him in any future meetings, for it spoils my day to be with him."

"Then this day is spoiled completely," Ginny scrutinized her small heart-shaped face in her hand mirror and applied more lipstick. "Toby asked him to drive back with us and take a picnic lunch to Haller Hollow."

"I won't go."

"You will. You promised to be sweet or I'd never proposed it, and now you just can't let me down."

"Riv expects to call me this evening."

"Let him call—it will do him good to find you gone."

"I don't want to go."

You're Spoiled
"WELL..." Ginny tucked the mirror back in her bag and stooped to brush dust from a saddlebag case. "This time you'll have to do something you don't like to do. You're spoiled, Sue Ellen. You take the bit in your teeth and race off whenever the notion strikes you. You're not going to do it today. I've planned the picnic and Toby's bringing the food and I'll make you go, if for no other reason than because I'm starved. I haven't had a thing to eat today but a glass of milk. If we go on the picnic..."

"Ginny!" She could not help but laugh. "How horrible to go with Toby because he feeds you!"

"Everyone knows it," said Ginny calmly. "Sometimes I think it might not be so bad to marry a man who'd guarantee plenty of ham and fried chicken. I'm greedy. I acknowledge it. You are, too."

"How?" But she knew even before Ginny answered.

"You'd marry a man who could give you Belle Acres and restore it. All its furniture and carpets and replant its lawns and gardens. I see nothing more sordid in marrying for meat and potatoes than for carpets and curtains."

They both laughed and Sue Ellen tucked her arm inside Ginny's as they walked away.

The sun was warm and bright, the air balmy as spring. They carried their light coats over their arms, as they moved toward the car drawn up at a little distance.

"I've known you all my life but really haven't known you at all," Sue Ellen confessed. "I don't agree with your philosophy of living, but at least you're honest, Ginny."

"Try it yourself," advised Ginny. "And have a good time this evening. I don't go for Yankees myself, but Johnny Harris is one of the best."

Sue Ellen opened her mouth to deny this, then laughed and flashed Ginny a glance which assured her she would do her part toward controlling her feelings regarding this northern soldier.

member of the band at the Mary Washington College, at Fredericksburg, Va.

Mrs. Claire Lockwood entertained last Saturday her two nieces and their families from Jersey City.

Mr. and Mrs. Lansing Hunt spent one day last week in Greenview visiting with Mr. Hunt's aunt.

Miss Constance Baker spent the week-end with her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Baker.

Later, when they reached Tyler Springs, Toby supplied the food which they collected at his grocery store. Bread, cheese, ham, pickles, olives and jars of salad dressing.

"Toby's sweet," said Sue Ellen as later she and Ginny made up the material into sandwiches, in the old brick-floored kitchen of the Fairchild home.

"Ummmmmmmm," Ginny popped a bit of sandwich into her small mouth before she answered. "Do you know that's the first food I've had today? Sundays we let Aunt Heppie off and don't have any Sunday dinner. Mamma goes to church and then goes to bed for the rest of the day. I take her a glass of milk, and if I'm lucky, someone asks me out. I can always get Toby. I hoped that Virginia Major might propose a supper date, but he had eyes only for you."

"Ginny... how awful. To angle for dates because you're hungry."

"It's the truth. Try this one!"

"I'm not hungry."

Ginny sighed. "I wish I weren't so greedy. I'll probably marry Toby eventually to assure myself a full stomach. Isn't it vulgar for a Fairchild to be so common?"

But her dancing eyes showed no real dismay.

"I'm just as greedy—but for something else more material than food."

"You'll have to work harder to get what you want," said Ginny. "There, that's the last sandwich. I wish we had a cake."

"Aunt Carolina baked a cake yesterday. She'll be delighted to donate it if she knows Johnny Harris will share it."

"She's met him?"

The Old South
SUE ELLEN bit her lip. "She knew his father."

"You don't mean—Sue Ellen! Is Johnny Harris's father the man? I can't believe it." Ginny almost upset the sandwich basket in her excitement.

"He called on Aunt Carolina yesterday."

"So that's why you hate him."

"I don't hate him."

Ginny persisted. "Mamma said they made your Aunt Car jilt him. Of course—girls had to do those days."

"What about the cake?" evaded Sue Ellen.

"You and Johnny collect it. I'll stay and entertain Toby. He deserves something after all this."

Ginny waved a hand negligently toward the well-filled picnic basket.

Right on the tip of Sue Ellen's tongue was a question she had no right to ask. How did Ginny reward Toby?

She went back slowly into the gloomy Fairchild front parlor, where Toby and Johnny sat smoking.

"We're going over and ask Aunt Carolina to give us her cake," she told Johnny.

He was already on his feet. "I called up Mr. Waller and postponed an engagement with him."

He hesitated, then asked: "Do you know Deedora Waller?"

"Slightly."

They walked across the high veranda and down the brick-paved path between rows of fragrant box hedges. They opened the iron gate. Johnny held it open as Sue Ellen walked through. He caught up with her and together they walked along under oak trees a century old.

On either side of the little village street stood homes like the one they had just left. Homes fast falling to decay. Dingy brick with rotting columns, lawns once wide and smooth, now overgrown and neglected. This street had once been the show street of the county. Slave quarters stretched across the rear of the rambling old mansions. Stables which once housed high-stepping horses—famous old gardens neglected and ragged.

"The Old South," said Johnny Harris thoughtfully, as Sue Ellen walked along beside him, not speaking. "Once my father came to Tyler Springs—years ago."

Still she said nothing, although she was remembering the stories she had heard of that visit. How her grandfather had brandished a pistol and threatened to have John Harris run out of town for daring to take advantage of a young girl's inexperience and force her into an engagement.

Oddly, she guessed that Johnny's thoughts might be the same as her own, as he walked silently beside her. When they reached the house, she could see Aunt Pleas seated in the parlor with her church paper spread out on her lap and her plump hands folded and her eyes tight closed.

She turned to Johnny: "I'll slip in and get the cake. Wait here."

Alone, the old house, she stood still in the dusky hall and wondered if she had given the lie to her resolution to avoid Johnny Harris. Had she allowed herself to forget Riv... Riv and her desire to make him jealous? She thought of Deedora Waller, whom she disliked because she possessed the power to interest men like Johnny Harris and Riv, in spite of her lack of looks. Deedora had no claim to beauty. She was smart. She had the money to carry out any plan; she had the advantage of travel, experience. She was broadminded and worldly. Sue Ellen sighed.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Book of Social Usage," etc.)

Should Husband and Wives Be Seated Side by Side?

I have been told in some communities it is customary to seat husbands and wives together at dinner parties. According to etiquette, this is altogether wrong. Today, a letter asks me, "If at a dinner party to be given for a bride and bridegroom of less than a week, would it be permissible to seat them side by side?"

It seems to be that so soon after their wedding, and at a dinner which is perhaps a continued wedding celebration with favors and a white-iced cake, I think it might be nice to seat them together. But if it is to be an ordinary dinner party, with no wedding-like trimmings about it, then they should be seated apart just as other husbands and wives are.

Young Widower Wants to Become Engaged

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the proper lapse of time after his wife has passed away, when a young widower may tell the girl he is now interested in that he would like to become engaged to her? And also, if she accepted him, how soon would it be considered proper for the wedding to take place?

Answer: Public opinion is determined to a great extent by situation. If he was the devoted husband of an invalid wife, or if for any other reason he has the especially good opinion of his neighbors, or if he perhaps has been left with a small child and no one to care for it, people surely would approve of his marrying a kind and capable young woman in as short a time as six months. But if his wife was much loved, and he was something of a philanthropist, and if he has no child, he probably will be criticized particularly by those who were fond of his wife, should he pay serious attention to another woman in less than a year. After his engagement is announced, (whenever that is) his marriage may take place immediately.

Dinner Knives

Dear Mrs. Post: Are regular dinner knives more correct than the short-bladed knives supposed to be used for meat?

Answer: I would say that regular dinner knives are more conservative. This does not mean that the short blades are incorrect; and if steak or roast beef is to be served, or broiled chicken—the short blades are much easier to cut with than a very long-bladed knife. Whether you like their appearance or not is entirely a matter of your personal taste.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "The Origin of the Great American Rudeness." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post in care of the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

His Girl Knows Writing Rules

From his happy smile you can bet his girl will never lose him by poor letters! She's made her letter style as beguiling and as smartly correct as her best date dress!

After all, when you're far away, your letter is your only representative. If you've written a drowsy "not been nowhere" instead of "not been anywhere," you're not there with a cute pout to laugh it off.

Nor does he remember your warm friendly smile when you write boring, tactless sentences like "Well, I have filled this sheet, so I guess I will close." He'll be charmed all over again, though, if you flatter: "Writing to you is such fun I hate to stop!"

You'll go farther at the office, too, if you keep the good will of clients with up-to-date letters. No deadening "Your letter received and contents noted" instead of "Thank you for your letter!" No cheap expressions like "A-I" and "O.K." when you mean "finest quality" or "approved."

Our 32-page booklet gives proper business and social letters forms, 24 model letters of all types. Suggests topics to write to friends about, gives tips on grammar, helps you to write easily charmingly.

Send ten cents in coin for your copy of "Good Letter - Writing Made Easy" to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Bishop E. H. Hughes Says Reaction Against Liquor Traffic Is Coming

mouth Church, Brooklyn, and of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Bishop Hughes in sketching the life of Lyman Beecher, who died at the age of 88 years, said he lived through many tempestuous times in our country's history, and it was scarcely unfair to declare that Beecher came from the ranks of anti-temperance forces. His first spiritual warning came while a student in Yale from the sight of a drunkard in the street, but his senior year in college found him completing his education with funds gained in part from the sale of liquor to his classmates and the professors of the college.

The second stage in Beecher's life showed his abhorrence of the evils of liquor when seeing the Montauk Indians exploited by the dealers in firewater. He said that when this country sent missionaries to Hawaii they were followed by our liquor traffic and so terrible had been the effects that literally thousands of Hawaiians had been murdered by the use of liquor.

Many of the members of the church today have been caught, he said, in the current madness. They keep alliance with trades tainted by relation with the liquor traffic. They rent quarters for saloon purposes; they themselves yield to the call of cocktail parties.

Fierce Weather Slows Germans

operations before Moscow, declared that Axis troops driving in to the Donets river industrial basin in the Ukraine had scored further advances.

By contrast, reports reaching London said Red Army troops had stopped the German thrust toward Rostov, gateway to the Caucasian oil fields, after evacuating Tanagerog, 30 miles to the west.

A Russian broadcast said the Germans had lost more than 5,000 men under tank-led Red Army attacks southwest of Moscow—presumably in the Maloyaroslavets sector, where Nazi spearheads have been reported within 50 miles of the Kremlin.

Soviet reports also told of renewed German attempts to advance east from Orel, with heavy fighting raging along the Orel-Mtensk highway. Mtensk is 175 miles southeast of Moscow.

In the north, the Russians said Red troops were defending Moscow by inflicting severe losses on the German siege forces, killing 500 in one engagement and 400 in another.

Behind the battle lines, France's aged Marshal Philippe Petain announced the French nation that 50 of their countrymen had been shot by German military authorities this morning in reprisal for the assassination of Nazi officers.

The Germans said that as a result of the slaying Monday of Lieut.-Col. Paul Friedrich Hotz, Nazi commander at Nantes, 50 more hostages would be executed "if the cowardly criminals paid by England and Moscow are not arrested by midnight, October 23."

Peta's broadcast, seeking to avert a threatened crisis, followed news of the killing of another German officer in Bordeaux yesterday—the second in 48 hours.

The slayers, described as between 17 and 20 years old, escaped. German authorities immediately ordered the arrest of 50 more Frenchmen as hostages.

In an emotional appeal to the populace, the 85-year-old Petain declared:

"The stream of blood is again flowing over France... the ransom is frightful. Frenchmen, put stop to the killings. I cry out to you about this in a broken voice. Do not let any more harm befall France."

Red Resistance Stiffens

On the war front, Soviet correspondence reported that Russian resistance was stiffening steadily northwest of Moscow, in the Kalinin sector, and that violent Red Army counter-attacks had smashed back a German attempt to cross a river there.

Hitler's high command gave no details of the asserted new advance into the Donets River basin.

In the Bryansk sector, 200 miles south of Moscow, the high command said mopping up operations had led to the capture of 5,000 more prisoners and 56 guns.

In the war in the air, five successive waves of R. A. F. bombers attacked Naples, Italy, for five hours during the night in the heaviest raid there since Italy entered the war, June 10, 1940.

Premier Mussolini's high command, acknowledging "huge damage to dwellings," listed 14 killed and 27 wounded as the R. A. F. dropped hundreds of incendiary and explosive bombs on the maritime and industrial city of 925,000.

It was the second raid on Naples in less than a week, a British attack last Thursday night having killed 12 and injured 37.

As the Russian campaign entered its fifth month, Red Army bulletins broadcast by the Moscow radio said all-night fighting raged in the sectors of Mozhaisk; Maloyaroslavets, 65 miles southwest of Moscow; and Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of the capital—the same areas mentioned for the past two days.

Advices reaching London said roads on the Moscow front were becoming almost impassable.

Nevertheless, Gen. Fedor von Bock's central front armies were reported mashing huge new forces of infantry and tanks at Smolensk and Rostov for a climatic frontal assault on Moscow. London military experts said the attack, when it comes, would result in a battle ten times as bloody as any so far chronicled in the war.

Dispatches from Kuibyshev, the new war-time Soviet capital, said columns of Red Army reserves were moving west to enter the lines, while eastward out of the danger zone rolled women, children and the aged.

The Soviet radio said that Moscow itself hummed with defense preparations and that trenches, pillboxes and other fortifications were being hastily going up in the wooded area just outside the city.

Meanwhile, authorized quarters in Berlin, commenting on the sinking of the American ship Bold Venture and Lehigh, declared that the former was flying the Panama flag and was not the United States business anyway, and that the facts were "not clear" in the second case.

Because we use the same method you yourself would use in your own business, we have saved thousands of dollars for you each year.

For instance, during the previous administration, in 1933, the Department of Public Works, around election time in October and November, had 396 men on the payroll, picking up leaves and cleaning streets, at a cost of $13,058.87. Last year, we spent $14,284.86 during the same period and for the same purpose, a saving of $11,634.01.

At present, 10 regular employees of the Department of Public Works are engaged in picking up leaves as follows: 1 flusher operator, 1 street sweeper operator, 2 truck drivers and 6 shovelers. This is 386 less men than they used to have to do the same job. Quite a difference, isn't it? Of course, even if one were disposed to load up the public pay roll for political purposes, it would be impossible today to hire 386 men. All the men seem to be working.

Last winter, because we have modern sanding machines and a modern sand bin, and because we have modern snow fighting equipment and our own dump trucks, we spent $11,000.00 for sanding and snow removal. $11,000.00 for the entire winter. Before our administration the city used to spend $10,000.00 in one storm.

Street cleaning, the old-fashioned way, in 1933, cost $33,356.79. Last year, the modern way, it cost only $10,442.02. A saving of $22,914.77.

Rubbish removal, with horse drawn vehicles, in 1932, cost $35,686.73. Last year, the modern way, it cost only $17,872.52, a saving of $17,814.21.

Garbage removal in 1932, cost $14,208.80. Last year it cost only $7,423.34, a saving of another $7,000.00 a year.

So far this year, 44 streets have been reconstructed by the Department of Public Works, and a half dozen more were done by the WPA. These were built at unit prices far below any ever built in the city.

Today people demand good streets and clean streets. They want streets properly sanded in slippery weather and they want the snow promptly plowed and removed in the business districts and in front of churches, funeral parlors, etc.

Today you citizens of Kingston get the kind of service you want because we have the equipment to give you that kind of service and we have the men who are trained to operate that equipment, too.

Now let's take the cost of sewer maintenance. In 1933, it cost $9,554.64. Last year it cost only $8,955.78 and we had 38 miles more of sewers to maintain last year than they did in 1933 because we have built 38 miles of sewers since we have been in charge of the city government.

Do you realize that the city paid $32,501.38 in interest on outstanding bonds in 1933 and only $25,364.50 last year?

Did you know that the city spent $8,123.11 on playgrounds in 1932, when they had no recreation program of any kind, and last year our playground and all-year-round recreation program cost only $6,169.05?

These are but a few of the savings that have been effected in the various operations of the city government.

You ask, How did you do this? I answer, by buying from the lowest bidder, by modern methods, using modern machinery and trained men, and by keeping a cost system so we know what every item cost, and can try to reduce the cost by improved methods, and by being constantly on the job.

No Trick On Tax Rate

I have often been asked "How is it that you have been able to keep the tax rate lower than it was when you first became mayor and still spend all the money that you have on all sorts of public improvements and spend the tremendous sums that were necessary for home relief, old age relief, aid to dependent children, funerals, doctors, hospitalization and the huge sums that were spent for materials and supplies used on WPA projects. How do you do it. Is there some trick about it?"

The answer is: There is no trick about it. It has been made possible by reducing the cost of doing the things that had to be done and yet doing them better than they were ever done before. For instance on street cleaning, ash removal and garbage removal we have saved $51,000.00 a year. That's about $2.30 per thousand reduction in the tax rate on those three items alone, and you must admit that we do these things better now than they did when they cost $51,000.00 a year more.

All streets are now cleaned regularly at least once a week when before most of them were cleaned only several times a year.

Ash removal is now done in a sanitary way. It used to be carted away in open wagons, with the ashes falling through the bottom of the wagons and blowing through the air.

Garbage used to be collected twice a week. Now it's collected three times a week.

So you get better service for less money.

In June, 1940, after studying the trend of international events, I concluded that the time was propitious to purchase certain machinery that was then necessary or that would soon be needed.

Thereupon wrote a letter to the Common Council dated June 29, 1940, in which I predicted that the federal government would soon embark on a gigantic national defense program; that the prices of commodities would sharply rise; and that certain manufactured articles would become scarce.

For those reasons, and in order to save the city money, I recommended to the Common Council that authority be given to buy certain equipment while the prices were still low and the equipment available.

All of the Republican members of the Council agreed that my recommendations were sound and all of the Democratic members of the Council voted against my recommendations.

The following equipment was purchased in July, 1940, at the prices shown below. I call your attention to the increases in the cost of each piece of equipment using prices quoted us on October 15, 1941. These increases total $8,748.40. In other words, by purchasing this equipment as we did in 1940, before prices began to go up, we saved the taxpayers $8,748.40.

Equipment	1940 Price Paid	1941 Increase in Cost
1 Street Sweeper	$7,200.00	$ 300.00
1 International 3-ton truck with dump body	3,500.00	300.00
1 Gallon power graders	9,356.00	2,668.00
1 Power shovel with digging boom	4,975.00	2,950.00
1 Mack 2½-ton chassis	1,649.50	108.00
1 Gar Wood dump body for Mack truck with 10-ton winch	1,917.00	165.00
1 8-ton gasoline roller	3,490.00	1,259.40
Total Savings		$8,748.40

This wide-awake kind of city planning, looking far in the future to safeguard the interests of the city for the benefit of the people and to save money for the taxpayers, is characteristic of the way the city is run under our administration.

This is not political promise, made to get votes.

This is another definite proof of actual performance.

A continuation of such savings may be expected from our administration because we are equipped by training and experience to render such service.

You know what we should do from our past record of accomplishment.

You cannot predict what someone else—a some unknown quantity—would do.

For this reason cited above, we decided last January to replace the old fire truck, purchased in 1915, stationed in Cornell Station. This fire truck was replaced with a powerful new Mack pumper at $9,000.00. Today, the price of the same pumper has jumped to $10,100.00. Because we acted at the proper time, we saved $1,100.00 on

Davis Denies Guilt In Virginia Murder

Alexandria, Va., Oct. 22 (AP)—Walter Davis, 36, negro, pleaded innocent today of charges he killed a southern railway patrolman here six years ago. A date for his trial was not set.

Davis, arrested in Highland, N. Y., waived extradition and was returned to Alexandria yesterday.

The patrolman, William M. McIntyre, was shot when he surprised three men stealing coal from an Alexandria railroad yard in February 1935.

This piece of apparatus, which was needed to insure dependable fire fighting equipment to protect the lives and property of the citizens of Kingston.

Some time later I will give you some more of the savings we have been able to make because we run the city not as a political grab bag but the same as we would if we were running our own business.

If any one tries for political purposes to hoodwink you in believing that we haven't looked after the interests of the taxpayer, you just ask him to explain these figures away. And, don't forget, our books and records are open for public inspection at all times.

And don't forget, ladies and gentlemen, I write my own speeches on my little typewriter at 173 West Chestnut street. No ghost writer or paid publicity agent has anything to do with my speeches.

Deep sleep of exhaustion is itself an anesthetic potent enough to permit of wounds being dressed without the sufferer knowing anything about it, according to Dr. G. H. MacNab, surgeon in charge of air-raid casualties at Westminster hospital, London.

This discovery was made when 150 wounded men, still carrying their rifles, arrived from evacuated Dunkirk, Dr. MacNab told a London meeting.

Many of the wounds, he explained, would normally have required anesthetics, but the men had marched 50 miles and they slept while their injuries were being dressed. The pain would have been acute, but they slept on for 48 hours.

Spy for 40 Years Says F.B.I. Tried To Force Suicide

By PAT McGRADY

New York, Oct. 22 (AP)—Fredrick J. Duquesne, 63, described by the government as a spy for 40 years, testified today that F.B.I. agents tortured him and invited him to commit suicide and that a counter-espionage agent tried to induce him to blow up "the Roosevelt church in Hyde Park."

Testifying in Brooklyn federal court, here he and 14 others are on trial for espionage conspiracy, he said that William G. Sebald, F.B.I. counter-espionage agent, said he could get me $10,000 if I'd do something for him.

"He said he had some dynamite and he wanted me to place it in the Roosevelt church in Hyde Park," Duquesne continued. "He said he'd get me out of the country."

"I said, 'you're insane.' " "He said, 'I'm not—not now.' "

Duquesne said Sebald brought up the same matter in a later conversation in Sebald's office and advised him that he could fly Duquesne to Dakar, Africa, eight days after the bombing.

"I told them I wanted to report a dangerous lunatic, and I gave them my name and address."

Raise Is Expected In Security Tax

Treasury Sources Reveal Possible Boost

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—Treasury sources said today the administration was considering a request to Congress to hike the employee's share of social security taxes from 1 per cent to 5 per cent of his paycheck.

Under this plan, if adopted, employers would increase their contribution to old age pensions from 1 to 2 per cent, and would continue paying 3 per cent for unemployment insurance, making their total also 5 per cent. At present, the employees pay no federal unemployment tax; only 1 per cent for old age pensions.

Even while this far-reaching proposal was under discussion, however, a possibility developed that the House soon might take an extended recess which would force postponement, until after the first of the year, or not only the projected boost in the social security levies but also a contemplated revision of administrative provisions of the general tax laws.

Speaker Rayburn said the leadership was hopeful that the House would be able to recess not later than Thanksgiving, for the balance of the year. He pointed out, though, that such a recess would not block committee study of both measures.

Exact details of proposed social security revisions were withheld, officials said, pending the President's reaction to suggestions of the treasury, federal security agency and others.

that Japan would be beaten before she started, owing to her bad economic position and lack of essential supplies. It would be a grim but brief experience for her, because there is no friend nearby to bring her aid. Hitler and Mussolini couldn't help.

America was Japan's major source of war materials up to the time we started applying an embargo, and 56 per cent of Nippon's essential supplies for heavy industry came from us. There is no alternative market to which Japan could turn, excepting that a partial replacement would be possible if she could secure the resources of the Dutch East Indies.

In short, quite apart from the economic strain of stoppage of trade, Japan's war machine could not long function, especially in the face of blockade. She has piled up such supplies as she could for an emergency, but they would be good only for a short haul.

In view of these circumstances, one must assume that in event of war the American or British strategy would depend heavily on blockade. This would be supplemented by bombing, both from aircraft carriers and from bases in China and, presumably, Russia.

Danger of bombing is one of Japan's constant terrors, because of the flimsy construction of her houses. A large air-fleet, employing incendiary bombs, probably could all but wipe out a great city overnight.

At the time of the argument of the matter, District Attorney Haver, appearing in opposition to the filing of the petition of designation, attacked the petition only on the grounds that it had not been filed in time. It had been anticipated that the question of authority of the committee on vacancies to designate a candidate after the holding of the caucus would also be brought up but Mr. Haver said he did not raise that question, standing on the question of time.

Francis Martocci, appearing for Buley, had anticipated that the question of authority would be raised and after the matter had been argued asked for time to file affidavits and cite law on the question of timely filing which had been raised. He told the court he had not anticipated that objection and was given two days to submit law to the court. That time expired today and Justice Schirick decided against Buley.

Middletown Clothiers Will Play Yellow Jackets Here Sunday

Ex-High School Gridiron Greats to Appear at Stadium

Abe Masci, Ex-Recreation Baseball Player, Will Be With Visitors; Other Stars Here

The strong and classy Middletown United Clothiers will be the attraction at municipal stadium Sunday afternoon for the vastly improved Kingston Yellow Jackets. Game time is set for 2:30 o'clock.

In making the announcement for this grid tussle the Wasps also said that they had turned down the road offer of the Watertown Collegians who had invited the Jackets to play at the upstate field this Sunday.

The Sunday afternoon's clash will be the only local football game at the stadium this week-end. Kingston High School plays in Poughkeepsie Saturday. Next week the school team travels to Port Jervis.

Old acquaintances will be renewed in Sunday's game as the Middletown Clothiers are made up entirely of former Orange county grid stars, mostly from Middletown. Many of the Yellow Jackets formerly wore the moleskins of the Kingston High School team. The same stars of the gridiron sport who formerly battled in school competition, will again be on the firing line in this contest.

Masci at Quarter
A former Kingston Recreation baseball performer also will be with the Clothiers. Abe Masci, who played second base this summer before being released. Abe is one of the all-around athletes. He plays quarterback for the Middies and according to advanced notices, plays that position in spectacular style. Abe Masci will be in the lineup Sunday afternoon.

Running down the lineup of the Clothiers finds many other names which have been familiar in local sport circles. At left end for the United Clothiers is Paul Masci, brother of Abe; Harry "Jazz" Seebor, former Port Jervis High School ace, plays left tackle; Melnick, left guard; Smith, center; Morris, right guard; Berthoff, former Orange county gridder, at right tackle; Hoyt, ex-Middletown star, at right end.

In the backfield the Clothiers are pretty well represented with former secondary aces who once burned up the DUSO League with their running antics. Abe Masci plays quarterback. L. Clemmer, one of the famous Clemmer boys, is at left half; Hasbrouck, ex-Liberty High galloper, plays right half, and the other half of the Clemmer duo, Gene, at fullback. Gene is widely known for his exploits on the gridiron turf while at Middletown.

While playing with Middletown High School Gene Clemmer was the dreaded back of every foe. He could pass, kick and run with sensational results. He was chosen for All-DUSO and most valuable player on the Middle squad. Gene will lead this United Clothier team Sunday afternoon.

Booster Day Set
Booster Day for the Yellow Jackets has been set for Sunday, November 2. No definite opponent has been contracted yet. Efforts will be made to bring out the fans for this home game with the aid of the local merchants, businessmen and sportsmen. Final plans will be formulated at the next meeting of the Wasps.

The Yellow Jackets will probably meet the Newburgh Recreation at the Hill City November 9. This game was originally scheduled for November 2. However, the Booster Day attraction forced it to be pushed one week behind.

Eddie Sabo Listed For Local Bowling Match at Centrals

Roll Special Against Charles Tiano; Team Meets Kendalls

Eddie Sabo, ace second baseman of the Kingston Recreationals during the past baseball season, will demonstrate his versatility next Saturday night at the Central Recreation alleys, when he leads his Franklin, N. J., Stars into action against the Kendalls of this city.

Sabo carries a 190 average in his home leagues and apparently is equally at home on the baseball diamond or polished lanes. The big second sacker rolls in the No. 4 slot for the Franklin team.

The New Jersey keggers average in the neighborhood of 940 and figures to give the Kendalls a real battle. Sedlock, the anchor, hits the maples at 195 and one who is well known in Jersey, Sabo averages 190, while the others are Rosen, 185, Morris, 183, and Kalsky, 180.

Kendalls, current Hudson Valley League leaders, will use their regular lineup of Gil Sampson, Howard Spaulding, Harold Broskie, Fred Rice and Charlie Tiano.

Duke Players Agree Geyer Of Colgate Is One of Best

All-American Candidate Picked Up 271 Yards in 12 Tries; Long Runs of 70, 98

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—Indian Bill Geyer, Colgate's All-American candidate who last week zoomed 98 yards to a touchdown against Duke, is a modern half-back who flies through the air—and over the gridiron—with the greatest of ease.

Geyer, who runs the hundred yard dash in 9.9 seconds, took up flying (the aerial kind) a year ago. Kept out of the college aviation classes because of a football injury, he hired his own instructor and now boasts a private pilot's license.

Duke players, however, testify his gridiron flying is more impressive. They back their views by citing his job last Saturday in Durham. Geyer bounced and flitted like a Spitfire in a thunderhead. His was the greatest individual performance at Durham since the days of the great Ace Parker.

The slight, 175-pound halfback played only 30 minutes and carried the ball but 12 times. Yet he gained 271 yards, ripped off one run of 70 yards to set up the first touchdown scored on Duke this season and personally accounted for the second with his 98-yard runback of a kickoff. That gave him an average of 22½ yards a carry.

A pursuit plane on the offense, Geyer is a defensive bomber who seldom fails to nail his man when it counts most. Against Penn State in Colgate's only major victory to date, he stopped State ball carriers three times when a miss would have meant touchdowns.

Geyer, in whose veins flows the blood of fleet Indian braves, is one of the hardest working football players canny Andy Kerr ever coached. The coach has to apply the brakes to keep his star from wearing himself out in practice scrimmage.

Nor are his tremendous speed and long scoring dashes a recent development. The senior from Bloomfield, N. J., scored on an 88-yard run against New York University in his first major game two years ago. His 55-yard return of a punt beat Syracuse last year and a 97-yard dash on the opening kickoff helped whip Akron.

Civilian Deaths Highest In Belgian Battle Toll

VICHY, FRANCE.—The civilian population of Belgium suffered greater casualties in the 18-day battle on her territory in May, 1940, than her armies, according to official figures issued in Brussels.

There were 10,000 civilians killed while the number of military dead was 7,500, according to the figures. Soldiers wounded numbered 18,583 and approximately 200,000 were taken prisoner, of which 130,000 have since been released.

A million and a half Belgian citizens took temporary refuge in France, most of whom have now been repatriated. Among those who fled overseas, 25,000 went to Britain and 5,000 to French Morocco, Portugal and the United States.

Pie Plates Subdue Bees, Help Defense Workers

WILMINGTON, ILL.—Construction work proceeding on schedule at the government's Kankakee ordnance works thanks to W. E. Driscoll and his tin pie plates. Driscoll defends the defense workers—from bees.

When the government acquired the plant site, departing farmers left their bees behind. Bees react to the clatter of pie plates like farm hands respond to the dinner bell, but they also respond to the din of air hammers and automatic riveters. When they come, Driscoll wearing mask and gloves beats his pie plates. Once he gets the queen in the hive he has the whole swarm.

London Assumes Control Over British Railways

LONDON.—The British government has taken over full control of British railways.

Direction of Britain's four main-line railways and London's vast system of subways, buses and trolley cars are placed under the management of the London transport board. The four big railways are the Great Western, London Midland and Scottish, London and North Western and the Southern.

Betty Hicks Newell Will Turn Professional Friday

Holder of Golf Title Is Abdicating for Money; Says She Hopes to Return to Ranks

Long Beach, Calif., Oct. 22 (AP)—Queen Betty Hicks Newell is moving out of goldfom's mythical amateur palace Friday to take a hike down the rock road of professionalism.

Queen Betty is quitting the amateur ranks, and abdicating the crown she captured less than six weeks ago, because she believes the amateur palace is carpeted with good intentions—and the pro road is paved with dollars.

In short, she's turning professional for the one immediate thing that pro golf promises: Money.

Little Miss Precision herself, in her honeymoon home, reaffirmed her decision today. It was the one she hinted at within an hour after stepping off the course at Brookline, Mass., September 13, the national title in her possession.

NEW JERSEY TRAIN COLLISION INJURES 28

Here are one of the overturned coaches and a damaged engine of a Pennsylvania passenger train after two westbound carriers collided near Rahway, N. J., injuring at least 28 persons. Police and railroad officials said apparently no one was killed.

Soviet Economy Geared for War

Rich Territory Is Lost, but Provision Already Had Been Made for That.

MOSCOW.—Faced with the prospect of a long and bitter war, the economic system of the Soviet Union is now busily adjusting itself to the conditions resulting from the German invasion and the initial German successes, including the conquest of certain extremely rich areas like White Russia and the Southern and Western Ukraine.

For many years the Soviet government has been preparing for the eventualities of war by building up in the Urals new centers of industry, based on such relatively new cities as Sverdlovsk or Magnitogorsk. Recently it was announced that considerable plant equipment from the steel manufacturing center of Dnepropetrovsk, which was captured by the Nazis, had been salvaged and moved eastward across the Dnieper dam road before the dam was blown up.

See Supply Ahead.

It is this basis for continued manufacturing that is expected to supply Russia during the anticipated prolonged struggle. It is hoped that Anglo-American aid will counterbalance the initial losses to the German offensive.

Of especial importance is the gathering of a harvest sufficient to feed the army and the rest of the population during the severe Russian winter. The Soviet is fortunate this season in having unusually good crops in certain large producing areas unaffected by the conflict so far. The increasingly cultivated Siberian regions, North Caucasus and Central Russia all benefited from better-than-average weather, and collective farmers are being urged on to a military tempo in harvesting to build up large reserves.

One of the most interesting features of the crop situation is the problem confronting farmers just behind the active fighting front. The press prints a dispatch from a region near Smolensk that was occupied by the Germans but from which they have been ousted. Russian peasants there now are gathering grain, the dispatch stated.

Crops Ahead of Last Year.

An official preliminary grain crop survey says that as a result of the "military tempo" introduced in most regions the harvest is between 10 and 16 per cent ahead of last year's. Especially good results have been noted, it is said, in the Tashkent, Crimea, Kazakhstan, Krasnodar and Tambov regions and in the North Caucasus, where, as the writer was able to witness a month ago, the outlook is extremely favorable. Even the usually dry Chkalov area in the Southern Urals has a good crop.

Other crops also are reported to be exceptional this summer—flax in the Moscow region, tea in Georgia, cotton in Southern Kazakhstan, and sugar beets in Voronezh. The Donbas grain elevators are filling up and the Kharkov harvest now is being threshed with trains moving daily toward state granaries.

Movie on Defense Work Is Shown for Lions Club

The Lions' Club saw a talking motion picture entitled, "Assembly Line of Defense" at its regular meeting held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, shown through the courtesy of Alfred Doyle.

It showed the construction of a building in record-breaking time and the way 60 million dollars was spent in tooling for the building of a plant capable of turning out 250 M-3 medium tanks each working day, a task no one thought possible a few months ago. Also it showed the testing of tanks going through buildings, knocking down large poles and going over and through all sorts of hazards. After they are given a 75-mile test run under army supervision, they are then ready for delivery.

Ernest DuBois was appointed as a director of the club to fill a recent vacancy. Lester Elmendorf, treasurer of "Admiral Byrd's lecture," reported favorably on the final returns and the club praised the committee in charge for the fine work they had done with a rising vote of thanks.

The club also accepted the invitation of the Rotary Club to attend a joint meeting Thanksgiving Day.

Annulment Action Decision Reserved

Question of Citizenship Is Placed by Plaintiff

An action for annulment of marriage was heard before Justice Harry E. Schirick along with an application for alimony by the defendant. William Reher of Kingston sought to have his marriage to Henrietta Julia Reher annulled by the court on the grounds that at the time of the marriage in Brooklyn on June 26, 1938, he had believed she was in this country with a permanent visa where later he found she was but temporarily in the country and had to make trips to Canada at frequent intervals to maintain her status.

Mrs. Reher claims that after the marriage she learned her husband was the father of two children and she claims that then she refused to live with him and she now seeks $15 a week alimony. Reher now seeks annulment of the marriage on the grounds she is not a permanent resident of this country as he believed prior to marriage. He contended that she told him that her status in this country would not cause any complications.

Surprise

A small security patrol from the 9th Division's 60th Infantry crept silently through the dark woods of South Carolina shortly after midnight this week. No Carolina moon betrayed them, no sound broke the silence. Then, suddenly, a twig cracked and leaves rustled on their right flank. Every man froze, motionless, alert. The lieutenant whispered orders, and the soldiers spread to ambush. Sharply the signal was given and the squad closed in. Their catch: a big, black mule from a nearby farmhouse.

The "Kolonie Zeitung" 78-year-old German newspaper of Joinville, Brazil, has just stopped publication.
